FOR SALE OR EXCHANGE.
HAVING determined to sell my residence, on South street, I will do so at a very low price for cash, or exchange for a smaller house in the city. The house is two stories high, and has nine large rooms; the lot is large and is as desirable as any in the city. The place is well supplied with various kinds of fruit and shrubbery, and has all the necessary out-buildings. For particulars apply to G. M. Montjoy, A. J. Hall or the undersigned. (mh22) MARY E. BOWMAN

THE MARYLAND SHIP CANAL.

The route chosen for the proposed ship canal between Chesapeake and Delaware bays begins at Queens-town, Maryland, and runs across the peninsula to Lower, Delaware, discharging into Delaware Bay, five miles above the Delaware breakwaters; distance, 51 miles. It is proposed the canal shall be 200 feet wide and 25 feet deep, with tide locks only. The entire line will have to be dug; estimated cost, $31,000,000. The saving in distance between Baltimore and any northern port will be 225 miles.

A GREAT SHIP ENTERS SOUTH PASS.

The British steamship City of Bristol, Inman Line, went through the jetties October 31 drawing 24 feet 7 inches of water. The tide was four inches below the average. There was no detention whatever at the jetties or at the head of the pass. Since that date it has been announced that the largest cargo of cotton ever floated at New Orleans has safely passed outward. Now for the sanitary improvements of the Mississippi Valley, which shall permanently avert the danger of yellow fever blockades.

HOW TO MEDICATE A PIG.

At a recent meeting of an English farmers' club, Prof. McBride spoke of the difficulty of administering medicine to a pig. He said: To dose a pig, which you are sure to choke if you attempt to make him drink while squealing, halter him as you would for execution, and tie the rope end to a stake. He will pull back until the rope is tightly strained. When he has ceased his uproar and begins to reflect, approach him, and between the back part of his jaws insert an old shoe, from which you will cut the toe leather. This he will at once begin to suck and chew. Through it pour medicine, and he will swallow any quantity you please.

SEED BY THE WAYSIDE.

[Christian Register.]

Some time ago a poor little boy came to a city missionary and holding up a dirty and worn-out bit of printed paper, said: "Please, sir, father sent me to get a clean paper like that." Taking it from his hand, the missionary unfolded it, and found it was a page containing that beautiful hymn of which the first stanza is as follows:

Just as I am—without one plea,
But that thy blood was shed for me,
And that thou bid'st me come to thee,
O Lamb of God I come.

The missionary looked down with interest into the face earnestly upturned to him and asked the little boy where he got it and why he wanted a clean one. "We found it, sir," said he, "in sister's pocket after she died. And she used to sing it all the time while she was sick, and loved it so much that father wanted to get a clean one and put it in a frame to hang it up." Wont you give us a clean one, sir? This little page with a single hymn on it had been cast upon the air like a falling leaf by christian hands humbly hoping to do some possible good. In some little mission Sabbath school probably this poor girl had thoughtlessly received it, to find in it, we may hope, the gospel of her salvation.

"NO REBELS, THANK YE."

[From the Memphis Avalanche.]

A good joke is circulating among the boys in connection with the prize military drill at St. Louis in September, in which the Chickasaw Guards won the first prize. The Harries Guards, the crack company of Dayton, Ohio, had entered the lists early. They proposed to show the assembled thousands just what a first-class military company arrived a local company met them at the depot to conduct them to quarters. The Harries Guards came in one morning in all the glory of brass buttons and plumes. A detachment was on hand to receive them.

Commander of the detachment stepping forward and saluting the Dayton captain: Captain, I have the pleasure to announce that you have been assigned quarters at the fair grounds next to the famous Chickasaws of Memphis. When ready to move I shall be pleased to escort you. Dayton captain, drawing himself up stiff as a ramrod, and evidently offended: Sir, I don't want to camp alongside a lot of southern rebels. St. Louis captain, now slightly "on his ear": Very sorry, sir; I didn't know that "rebels" or politics had anything to do with this thing. You can use your own pleasure and find any quarters that suit you. [Exit St. Louis detachment.]

But the Spartan firmness of the Dayton man saved the Harries Guards from the calamity of breathing the same atmosphere inhaled by those terrible rebels, the Chicks.

The Harries Guards roosted away down about No. 10 in the contest. Though carrying away no prize, they escaped contamination.

The incident seems to prove that all the political lunatics do not have their washing done south of the Ohio river.

A new and unique style of trimming is made of feathers. It is made in Switzerland, and there is every reason to believe that it will become fashionable in time.

CUPID AT HIS PRANKS AGAIN.

[From the New Orleans Times.]

A lovely girl—all young girls are lovely, but this one has more than the mere beauty of youth—living down town, and possessed of excellent social position, friends, family and better than all, fortune, stood on her balcony early one morning, not so very long ago, with a blushing, fragrant rose dropping its crimson petals against her bosom. Just then the milkman came along. He was busy with his shining cans, and it must be he caught the reflection of the blushing rose and its lovely wearer in his tin milk cans; at any rate he fell in love, and the next morning wore a fit mate for the splendid flower fastened in his linen blouse. The roses made eyes at each other for some days, and the end is at hand, for next week there is to be a wedding. Is it not pretty?

THANKSGIVING PROCLAMATION.

EXECUTIVE DEPARTMENT, CITY OF JEFFERSON.

In acknowledgment of the many mercies bestowed upon the people of this state during the past year, and in pursuance of the proclamation of the president of the United States, I, John S. Phelps, governor of the state of Missouri, on behalf and in the name thereof, do hereby designate Thursday, the 27th day of November, as a day of thanksgiving and prayer. As a day of thanksgiving and prayer, as a day to abstain from their usual secular pursuits on that day, to assemble in their usual places of public worship, and to return thanks to Almighty God for the abundant harvest he has bestowed upon our people—for the increase of business and general prosperity now enjoyed—for our exemption from pestilence, and for other innumerable blessings we have received, and to pray they may be continued.

In testimony whereof, I have hereunto set my hand, and caused to be affixed the great seal of the state of Missouri.

Done at the City of Jefferson, this 15th day of November, in the year of our Lord, 1879, of the independence of the United States the 104th, and of the State of Missouri the 60th.

By the Governor: JOHN S. PHELPS. M. K. McGRATH, Secretary of State.

"HOW LONG HAVE I TO LIVE?"

[From Harper's Bazar.]

It is not every one who asks himself this question, because, strangely enough, it is the belief of most persons that their lives will be exceptionally lengthy. However, life assurance companies are aware of the credulous weaknesses of those who lives they assure, and have therefore compiled numerous tables of expectancy of life for their own guidance, which are carefully referred to before a policy is granted. The following is one of these well authenticated tables in use among London assurance companies, showing the average length of life at various ages. In the first column we have the present ages of persons of average health, and in the second column we are able to peep, as it were, behind the scenes of an assurance office, and gather from their table the number of years they will give us to live. This table has been the result of careful calculation, and seldom proves misleading. Of course sudden and premature deaths, as well as lives usually extended occur, but this is a table of the average expectancy of life of an ordinary man or woman:

Age.	More years to live.
1	59
10	51
20	41
30	31
40	21
50	11
60	6
70	4
80	2

Our readers will easily gather from the above tabulated statement the number of years to which their lives, according to the law of averages, may reasonably be expected to extend.

Special Notice—Cash, Cash.

In order to be enabled to sell goods and do work in my line at bottom prices I have determined from and after this day to sell only for cash. In coming to this determination I am sure that I consult the best interest of all my customers. Persons in need of saddlery, harness, findings or repairing will do well to bive me a call as my prices will be as low as the lowest. Those persons knowing themselves indebted to me will please call and settle before January 1st, as I will at that time place all unpaid accounts in the hands of an officer for collection.
